

WBGU-PBS will grant an educational institution permission to digitize Title IX Implications for Women in Sport and Education into a streaming format and distribute it via a password-protected server for use by the institution's students and staff in perpetuity.

This permission is subject to the following conditions:

1. all programs will be digitized and distributed in their entirety;
2. the digitized programs will be stored on a server in a format that can be streamed, not downloaded (downloading is strictly prohibited);
3. this server will be password-protected so that digitized programs can only be accessed by enrolled students and employed faculty of the educational institution;
4. the digitized programs will not be used for demonstration purposes outside the educational institution without prior and expressed written permission from WBGU-PBS.

The educational institution agrees to pay WBGU-PBS a one-time fee of $300 for digitizing into MPEG format after the purchase of one (1) copy of the series. Additional fees will be required for additional and/or future uses and/or formats.

WBGU-PBS reserves the right to request access to the educational institution's server(s) to insure complete compliance with these terms.

Acceptance of these terms and conditions will become effective upon receipt of the requisite fee or institutional purchase order.
